Margo,

The PRPs imbedded EPA's proposed language for paragraphs 65, 89, and 93 into the last version of the AOC provided by Lauren Charney last September. We then created a clean copy of EPA's complete AOC which everyone reviewed and commented on. We have circulated several drafts of the full AOC which incorporate the collective proposed changes of the 4 private parties and 3 public parties. We have also had several calls (including yesterday) to work through comments. A final draft was recirculated to the 7 parties this morning for final review, and Kevin and I have authority to send you the draft on Monday (after 12:00).

To further move things along, the PRPs also have asked all parties to re-review the last version of the SOW discussed last September between Arcadis and EPA's technical people to confirm its acceptability. We will also be providing you and Jim with a copy of this SOW on Monday.

Kevin and I are both available on Tuesday afternoon (after 1:30) to conference with you and Jim. If that does not work, please propose some alternate dates/times next week.

David

Margo,

There is still some last minute exchanges going on between the 7 PRPs (all the public entities were shut down yesterday). We are trying to get everyone on board for getting an AOC response to you by no later than end of this week.

Margo,

The PRPs discussed the AOC last Thursday and have a follow up call tomorrow. I am hopeful that we will be able to respond shortly with our collective comments.

Hi David,

I am writing to follow up on the Lower Ley Creek Remedial Design AOC language that was sent to you on January 4, 2015. Please let me know where things stand with respect to your review of the new paragraphs. I am available to discuss by phone.

Thank you,
